

Roscoe is a Covid baby. Yup, that happened to the dog community too. And like so many Covid babies, meeting non-family humans and dogs came a little late in his development. Fortunately, we here at CARE Network are now well-versed in socialization training and Roscoe is a star pupil. He meets new people several times a week and goes for meandering, sniffy walks with them. Good boy!

We have gotten to know Roscoe very well while he has been at our Tofino shelter. He is now the 'office dog' and goes home with one of our team members every night to enjoy home life too. He is happy to sleep in his own bed but even happier when he is invited into someone else's bed for morning cuddles which can result in multiple snooze button pushes. Or late mornings if snoring puts you back to sleep.

R is for his respectfulness. Roscoe is a great housemate. He is happy to sleep in his own bed (and will join you in yours in a nanosecond if invited), he waits patiently for his meals, and isn't quick to bark. The most noise he makes is his snoring.

O is for obsessed. This guy can go days just cuddling his favorite stuffy toy (Leopard is his current favorite). But after a while, perhaps out of extreme love(?), Roscoe will obsessively chew into his stuffies until that oh-so-fun squeaker is found.

S is for silly and soft. Have you seen the photos of Roscoe in his tie? Or vest jacket? He definitely has a silly side and I laugh most when he is on his back tossing toys in the air to himself. At heart, Roscoe is a softy. Sadly, he has had a rough start and lacks some confidence but that is building every week.

C is for cuddles. Whether you like to cuddle on the floor, couch, or bed, as the big or little spoon, Roscoe will join you. Need to get out of bed the second the alarm goes? I suggest setting it for 15 minutes earlier and hitting 'Snooze' to get the minimal morning cuddles in.

O This O is for OMG, Roscoe is a great dog! His ideal home is one without other animals and children, at least to start.

E is for Even. Even if you cannot take this lovely boy home, please share his story far and wide so we can find his perfect person.
